

IIIT-Delhi aims to encourage research and innovation in Information Technology (IT) and allied areas. The objective of this department is to conduct outstanding research at the interface of biological sciences and computer science to bridge the gap between diverse biological streams, starting from biological networks to molecular biology, computational fields including algorithm development, high-performance computing, etc.

Research Publications

Explore our latest research publications in various scientific journals.

Selenium-Based Highly Fluorogenic Molecular Probes for Live-Cell Nucleolus Imaging

Web Services

"CELL ATLAS SEARCH: Single cell search engine." "Dfilter: Signal detection and estimation using next-gen sequencing data." "WashKaro is a free Android-based app."

Opportunities

» Position of Research Assistant for ICMR project under Dr. Debarka Sengupta at IIIT-Delhi. » Applications are invited for Ph.D. Research Scholar position funded by TiH under Dr. Debarka Sengupta at IIIT-Delhi. » Department of Computational Biology is hosting Health Informatics Summit from 16th - 19th of October 2021. » For the latest career opportunities like internship, RA, JRF, Post-Doc, and other project positions. © 2022, Dept. of Computational Biology, IIITD. All Rights Reserved. | Design:Raghava Lab